Paperwhite Narcissus

The Paperwhite is the most popular of the tender Polyanthus or Cluster Narcissus. The bulbs flower readily indoors. Growing them in water with a thin layer of gravel, stones or chips is a favorite way of flowering them. Since the bulbs are available early fall until mid-winter, these full clustered blooms can be produced indoors from November until Spring. In mild climates Paperwhites flourish outdoors.

Gloriosa Rothschildiana

ORANGE SCARLET CLIMBING LILY

Also known as the Glory Lily, the Gloriosa Rothschildiana tuber produces a climbing plant which grows rapidly four to six feet tall, requiring trellis support. From 10 to 30 blooms of brilliant scarlet and yellow develop from a single tuber. The plant thrives in southern gardens, but is also grown in the North in greenhouses, and outdoors in warm locations during summer months.

Tuberous-Rooted Begonias

Tuberous-rooted Begonias make beautiful pot plants for early spring, but they are proving their full value for summer flowering outdoors, in moist and partly shaded places. They make a gorgeous succession of blooms, in many colors, throughout the summer and until frost. We stock the most popular type, Double Camellia, in all colors; this type makes large, showy blooms and is most satisfactory for home and greenhouse culture.

Gloxinias

These richly colored, bell shaped flowers with large, downy leaves, have long been popular as house plants. Today their growing popularity is due to discovery by home gardeners that Gloxinias can be grown successfully outdoors. They should be planted in a semi-shaded location and treated the same as Tuberous Begonias.
